PLATT COMES HOME TO REST.

"ROOSEVELT, SURE," HE SAYS, AND THEN HE GOES TO BED

Henry B. Platt Went to Philadelphia, Told Him He Ought to Come Home and Brought Him Home—Senator Is Tired Out and in No Condition, His Doctor Says, to Work. Senator Thomas C. Platt, who left Philadelphia shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afernoon, got here at 5:50 o'clock. Senator Platt came home because he was completely exhausted and needed a rest. I have advised him to go to bed and get a good night's rest, and if he does it he will feel much better to-morrow. Just before he went to Philadelphia, Senator Platt fractured the ninth rib on the right side, and while the matter is not serious, Mr. Platt is not in any condition to do hard work." "I went over to Philadelphia and saw my father." said Henry B. Platt, at the Fifth Avenue Hotel last night, "and I found him completely exhausted. I told him that I thought he ought to come home at once and he agreed with me that he needed a rest. So we just packed up and came home, and that is all there is to it. My father is not seriously ill, but he is a tired-out man, and may be ill if he doesn't rest. He will not talk any politics to-night, and I haven't even talked about matters with him myself. I heard him say to-day on our way over from Philadelpia, though, that Gov. Roosevelt would surely be the nominee for Vice-President."

ROOSEVELT'S SUCCESSOR AT ALBANY.

The Hon. William Leary Nominates Youngs for Governor and Coggeshall for Lieut.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—There was a very general feeling around the Walton Hotel to-night that the Hon. Theodore Roosevelt would be nominated for Vice-President to-morrow, and that feeling started the talk anew about his successor as Governor of the State of New York. It developed that the Hon. William Jay Youngs, the private secretary to the Governor, was a candidate for the the Hon. William Jay Youngs, the private secretary to the Governor, was a candidate for the place. He is backed by those eminent statesmen, the Hon. William Leary of the Gashouse district and the Hon. Henry Coggeshall, Senator from the Community. Mr. Youngs, his supporters say, is the l gical candidate, and Mr. Youngs himself thinks that he ought to be nominated in order to carry out the policies of the Roosevelt administration. Mr. Leary was asked to-night whether he was in earnest in his support of the candidace of the private secretary, and Mr. Leary repiled:

"Of course I am in earnest. The ticket this year will be Youngs for Governor and Coggeshall for Lieut. I would like to see anybody beat that ticket. It's correct geographically, too. Mr. Youngs comes from Oyster Bay, the southern extremity of the State, and Mr. Coggeshall comes from the Community. Of course it is useless for me to say anything about the eminent qualifications of these two gentlement. They are ideal candidates. Mr. Coggeshall is particularly strong among the religious element. Everybody knows how strong Youngs is in politics. If Gov. Roosevelt should be nominated for Vice-President tomogrow I shall start right out to secure the nomination of this ticket. It is possible, of course, that I may not be a delegate from my own district, but it makes no difference. I will be a delegate in the convention. Proxies are easy to get, and the ticket will go through."

H. CLAY EVANS OFFENDED.

Clay by recognizing his opponents as delegates from Tennessee, it is probable that Mr. Evans will return to Chattaprobable that Mr. Evans will return to Chattanooga and make the race for Congress. A report has been current here for several weeks to the effect that if the Evans delegates were not seated by the convention Mr. Evans would resign as Pension Commissioner and accept the nomination for Congress in this district. The story has not yet been denied by any of the Commissioner's friends, and its revarded as true. Mr. Evans, it is said, considers the action of the convention in seating Walter P. Brownlow and his followers as a disapproval of his administration of the Pension Bureau, and his friends say he has informed the President that his resignation will be forthcoming whenever it is wanted. Friends of Mr. Evans say he wanted to resign from the Pension Bureau several months ago and so informed the President, but the latter would not consent to it.

CHICAGO'S CLIMATE CHANGED. Experts Say the Drainage Canal Has Made a Cooler City.

Chicago, June 20.—The temperature of Chicago and of a considerable territory immediately around it has been lowered, say experts, because the Sanitary Trustees have dug a canal and caused the Chicago River to flow backward. The present season is cooler than past ones have been because of this fact, and summers to come, it is said, will be cooler so long as the canal shall remain open. The explanation offered is that the constant urrent flowing through the canal brings the cold water of Lake Superior to the southern part of Lake Michigan. The temperature of the water in the lake at Chicago is colder than it has been in past years, and the warm, dark liquid that formerly lay stagnant in the Chicago River is replaced by a stream of cold water River is replaced by a stream of cold water from the north. President Boldenweck of the Board of Sanitary Trustees declares that the drainage canal has brought about a permanent change in the climate of Chicago. Lieut. Wilson of the United States Hydrographic Office makes the same statement about the lowering of the temperature of Chicago by the opening of the canal and gives the same reasons why it should be so. Prof. Henry J. Cox, chief of the Weather Bureau, admitted that the canal might account for the cooler weather this year and that it might cause a permanent change.

Carlin of the Committee of Arrangements Carlin of the Committee of Arrangements protested and got a thumping by the Rain Makers. Special Policeman Robert Smith tried to break up the game, but was beaten with his own club. Then the picnickers themselves rushed the toughs and overpowered them. The dice and several red and black lay-outs were thrown overboard. When the excursion got back to Williamsburg last night William Cunningham, "Kid" Hannigan and Henry Betz, the three leaders of the Rain Makers, were arrested on Policeman Smith's complaint and locked up in the Bedford avenue station.

STRIKE PICKETS FINED. And This Promptly Restores Order at the Cigar Factories in Second Avenue.

Detectives from the East Fifty-first street and the East Sixty-seventh street stations started out late on Tuesday afternoon to put an end to the disturbances caused by the striking eigarmakers along Second avenue. The trouble centres about the factory of Kerbs, Wertheim & Schiffer, at Fifty-fourth street,

There the unions have placed pickets, who molest the men and women now working in the factory. The strikers stand in doorways and shout "Scab" at the employees of the factory on their way to and form work. On Tuesday night the detectives had little trouble in making Mary Wickman, who said she was a native of Bohemia, was first arraigned before Magis-of Bohemia, was first arraigned before Magistrate Crane in the Yorkville court vesterday. There was a lack of evidence against her and she was discharged.

Louisa Wengborn and her daughter, Pauline Wengborn, of 340 East Seventy-fourth street, were not so fortunate. They paid $3 each for shouting "Scab." The girl was flashily dressed and looked to be 20 years old, although she said she was 13. "You must learn to behave properly," said Magistrate Crane; "if you come here again you will not get off as easily as today."

here again you will not get oil as easily as to-day.

Isabelle Pye paid $3 for kicking up a rumpus and was also warned by the Court. Herman Blouitch of 1323 Second avenue also paid the three-dollar fine. Jacob Abrahams, who admitted that he was a picket, was accused of attempting to assault a workman. "You can work where you please," said the Magistrate, "but you must permit these people to work at any wages they wish or as any time. You must under-stand that you can't interfere with these cigar-makers."

stand that you can't interfere with these cigarmakers."

Abrahams was fined $10. A representative of the strikers paid all the fines, but later in the day the Strike Committee announced that the union would pay no more fines. This especially refers to the factory at Seventieth street and Avenue A, where a number of persons have been arrested recently for annoying those who have taken the strikers' places. Albert of the strikers, who made the announcement, also warned the strikers that the union would no longer pay a lawyer to defend them should

REAGAN AGAINST BRYAN.

EXPANSIONISTS AT THE TEXAS DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

Opposition to the Programme Prepared by Joe Balley Finds Expression in the Speechmaking-A Patriotic Address by Judge John H. Reagan Warmly Applauded. Austin, Tex., June 20. - The Democratic State Convention to choose delegates to the National Convention and Presidential Electors from each of the thirteen Congress districts met here at noon to-day. An effort was made from the beginning to conduct the affair according to a cut-and-dried programme prepared by the Hon. Joseph W. Bailey, who is on the ground. It was to be seen early in the proceedings that a lively time would be had over the expansion uestion. The delegations held caucuses durng the forencon to agree upon two delegates from each district to the National Convention. In two of these conventions bolts occurred over the question of instructing for expansion of anti-expansion men. The Committee on Resolutions is made up of one member from each Senate district, the total membership be ing thirty-one. There are several ardent expansionists and anti-Bailey men on the committee and that issue has been the subject of much pansionists and anti-Bailey men on the committee and that issue has been the subject of much consideration on the part of the committee, which met at 4 and is still in session.

After the appointment of the Committees on Resolutions, Permanent Organization and Credentials the remainder of the afternoon session was spent in speechmaking. Judge John H. Reagan, in response to an invitation from the convention, delivered a vigorous speech in advocacy of the retention of the Philippines and the remainder of the island possessions of the United States. He said he did not agree with W. J. Bryan and other leaders of the Democratic party as to the acquisition of Louisiana Florida, Texas and other possessions secured under Democratic Administrations. The same sort of arguments were made against those acquisitions as are now made by Democratic against the policy of the Republican party. He would never take the position of the old Federalists on the expansion question.

"I do not agree with those who say we ought not to acquire Cuba," he continued. "The result of the war with Spain places it within the power of the United States to do more for civilization than any other nation has the power to do. It has been said we cannot acquire this territory without making States of it. Why, the Territory of New Mexico has had population enough to make a State for fifty years, but we have not done so. Talk about giving self-government to the Porto Ricans and the Filipinos. Why, there is not a sensible man in this convention who does not know that those people are not capable of self-government."

At the conclusion of his speech Judge Reagan was lionized by his admirers.

The convention held a session to-night and heard the report of the Committee on Credentials.

heard the report of the Committee on Credentials.

It is generally conceded that Joe Bailey's friends are in control. Mr. Bailey is directing his forces in person. The minority against him, however is bitter. Bailey has written the platform, taking in his anti-expansion plank, which was rejected two years ago by the convention in Galveston. The opposition wishes to radifirm the plank of the Galveston platform. There has been a fight all the afternoon in the Committee on Resolutions. The minority will report in favor of the Galveston platform plank on expansion and carry the fight to the floor of the convention.

Another feature of the fight is over the number of delegates at-large to be sent to Kan-sa City. Bailey wants four out-and-out Bailey alternates. The anti-Bailey minority is pleading for harmony on the basis of four Bailey and four anti-Bailey delegates and no alternates.

The convention is unanimously a Bryan and Chicago platform gathering. Congressman R. Chicago platform gathering. Congressman R L. Henry of Waco is permanent chairman.

TAMMANY TO ENTHUSE ALL RIGHT Leaders Wont Go to Kansas City, Eh?-Wait

John F. Carroll, Senator Plunkitt and other Tammany leaders are said to be very much worried over the lack of enthusiasm shown by the district leaders over the trip to the Democratic convention at Kansas City. After the meeting at Tammany Hall on Tuesday about every other man who issued from the Executive Committee room had some excuse to offer for not going to the convention. It was said yesterday that there would be difficulty in filling the three special trains that have been engaged to take the Tammany men to Kansas City Many men who were supposed to be going as a matter of course, but who have not yet declared themselves one way or the other on the matter, are not going at all, it is said.

he could not help hearing the talk about the he could not help hearing the talk about the lack of enthusiasm. Now, Senator Plunkitt is to be in charge of two of the special trains, and all the arrangements for the trip are in his hands. Mr. Plunkitt was asked what the lack of interest in the convention among local Democrats meant. He declared most emphatically that there was no lack of interest.

"A lot of the boys said yesterday that they were not going, he said, but they'll go all right. Some are not going because they have dutles at home that they will have to stay and attend to. Now, there's President Feitner of the Tax Board. He can't go because he has got his assessment rolls to attend to. Beside that he must take charge of the Fourth of July celebration. Tammany isn't going to neglect the Fourth because there is a convention at Kansas City. Not much, she isn't. Ed Sheehy says that he isn't going and so does Larry Delmour. But they'll go, all right. Keating cannot go because he has a broken arm and Murphy can't go because he's been living on milk for a year and it would be as much as his lie is worth to go so far away from home. Let me tell you that all this stuff about Tammany men not going to the convention because they do not care to how if or Bryan is all nonsense. The Tammany men are all ready and willing to show enthusiasm for Mr Bryan. There's nothing in all this talk about our trip to the convention being a frost. We'll take a big crowd out there and show the Westerners that we mean to stick to Bryan to the last."

Senator Plunkitt said that he had no idea who lack of enthusiasm. Now, Senator Plunkitt is and show the Westerners that we mean to stick to Bryan to the last."

Senator Plunkitt said that he had no idea who would be the Democratic nomines for Vice-President, but that he thought Admiral Schley would be a good man.

John F. Carroll, when asked yesterday what arrangements had been made to receive Mr. Croker when the Lucania gets in to-morrow or Saturday, said that no arrangements had been made, as Mr. Croker preferred to come home quietly, and didn't want any demonstration. Others said that there'll be enthwisism to burn about the Kansas City Convention when Mr. Croker gets here and turns it on.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 20.-The Prohibitionist f Kanas met here to-day and nominated a full State ticket. The customary resolutions denouncing the liquor traffic and declaring in favor of prohibition, State and national, were adopted, after which the convention adopted the following resolution:

"We proclaim to the country that the establishment of the army canteen by executive power in violation of a law supported by Republicans, Democrats and Populists, the constitutionality of which has never been passed upon by the highest court of the land, is an outrage against justice, an injury to the public service and a vidous course to destroy the boys who gallantly, patriotically and fearlessly offered their lives for the delence of their country, and we hereby condemn the President and his Attorney-General for usurping the authority to nullify a law passed in the interests of the nation, our brave soldiers and the homes of our people in the States as well as in our new possessions abroad."

Mr. Goodwin is not leader of the Ninth and cannot be until after the August primaries. Mr. Sheehan was duly elected leader after a bitter fight a year ago and his name is on the roll of leaders at Tammany Hall. Nevertheless, Mr. Carroll recognized Mr. Goodwin at the meeting on Tuesday.

Just now feeling is running high in the district. It is whispered that there have been many withdrawals from the Pequed Club, Mr. Sheehan's h'adquarters, but these stories come from the Horatio Seymour Club, where the Goodwin-Smith faction holds forth. As far as can be learned the only member of the Pequed Club, who has actually deserted the Sheehan ship and gone over to the opposition is Benjamin B. Dall, who was a member of the Executive Committee of the Pequed Club. Mr. Dall resigned three weeks ago, and on Tuesday night was made a member of the Seymour Club. Mr. Dall was one of the oldest members of the Pequed Club, having boen at one time its secretary. His loss is felt there is no danger of any one else deserting.

In all there were 138 new members taken into the Seymour Club on Tuesday night.

Hermann Schaeffer, President of the Dr. Jaeger Sanitary Woolen System Company of 644 Broadway, committed suicide on Tuesday night at his home, 270 Berkelev place, Brooklyn, by taking a dose of carbolic acid. Grief over the death of a son together with worriment over business matters was believed to have driven him to the act. Two months ago his sevenyear-old son died and soon afterward his wife and the three other children, two boys and a girl, went to Germany to visit his wife's family, Before leaving the office of his company on uesday evening, he told Charles Orbeck, the orter, not to fail to call at his house in Brookporter, not to fail to call at his house in Brook-leyn at 7 e'clock the next morning for a package. When Orbeck called Mr. Schaeffer was found dead in bed. A glass which contained poison, and several letters, were on a table near by. The letters were for his wife, his sister-in-law, a member of his firm and Charles Orbeck, the porter. This is the letter to Orbeck: JUNE 19, 1900.

TWO SHOTS TO KILL HIM. Septuagenarian Suicide Finding That One Bul-

let Didn't Kill Him Fired Again. Philip Buechner, a retired tailor, 72 years old ommitted suicide yesterday at his home, 187 Avenue A, by shooting himself. The first bullet did not kill him, though it wounded him in the side, so he fired a second and fatal shot. He left a letter in which he stated that some of the members of a union to which he belonged were trying to put him out. "Bury me as economically as possible and dress me in my black coat and vest," he wrote.

Drank Enough Poison to Kill a Dozen Men Henry Claar sat down under, a tree in Riverside Park, opposite West Seventy-third street yesterday morning and drank half a pint of carbolio acid—enough to kill a dozen persons. He was dead long before a doctor could be reached. A card found in his pocket showed that he had lived at 887 Amsterdam avenue and had been a patient in St. John's Hospital.

the Members Aren't Typewriters, Though One Unfortunate Male Speaker at Their Send-Off Assumed That They Were. With feasting and much oratory and the ooperation of the Competitor Man, the New York Business Women's Association launched itself upon its career in its new clubrooms last night. Originally the 'sterner element among the founders intended to get along entirely without the Competitor Man, but after some discussion they decided to let him take part in the start, anyway, and see how he behaved. Such specimens of the sex as were there last night—they seemed to be chiefly husbands who came in care of their wivesbehaved themselves with exemplary humility. The male speakers made complimentary speeches about womankind in general and business women in particular. It was a woman, however, who told the assembly how much better wives and mothers they would make for having been business women-which isn't precisely the object of the organization.

The association's new quarters are at the very top of the Downing Building at 10s Fulton street, where the people in them get the benefit of every breeze that blows. The big luncheon room was trimmed up with flags and flowers last night and presented a festive appearance when the hundred odd diners sat down. The general appearance of the banquet was not exactly sternly busines after things got fairly going. The New York Business Women may toll and likewise spin, and undoubtedly they do; nevertheless they were arrayed like the lilles of the field. There was a distinctly fluffy effect to the gathering. It looked not unlike a commencement feast at a seminary, except that the age average was a little to the shady side of the ordinary comwith a little speech in which she told of the foundation of the club and its hopes and prospects. She then introduced Miss Grace H. Dodge of the Advisory Committee, who made complimentary remarks. Mrs. T. St. John Gafney was next introduced and made the remarks about the business women of the future making the best wives and mothers, thereby causing her hearers to regard her doubtfully, as if they wondered whether she was mildly poking fun at them. She also predicted great good to the world's social progress from the growing independence of women. Thomas G. Shearman of Brooklyn was then introduced and said that he would speak for the inferior sex.

I am glad you call yourselves women," said Mr. Shearman. "I have a great respect for the saleswoman, but I don't care anything about the saleslady."

Mr. Shearman then proceeded to put his foot in it with considerable accuracy and skill by launching into a disquisition upon typewriters. Now, the Business Women's Association reprehends severely the tendency to regard it as an aggregation of typewriters. In fact it is averred that there is some feeling against the organization because it turned the cold shoulder upon many performers upon the unmusical keys when the process of organization was going on. The members impress against the organization because it turned the cold shoulder upon many performers upon the unmusical keys when the process of organization was going on. The members impressit upon all and sundry on all possible occasions that they are not typewriters and will not endure to be so considered. Consequently there was something like a shiver when Mr. Shearman proudly announced that he was the inventor of the feminine typewriter and went on to tell how he taught a young woman to play the machine years ago when it wasn't considered an occupation for women; how that young woman worked in his office and then got a place at a higher salary; how she went to Chicago and made $40 a week (here the speaker paused for expressions of astonishment and admiration which were not forthcoming) and how she finally married her employer, according to the plans and specifications laid down and probably copyrighted by that well-known and highly popular authoress, Laura Jean Libbey. Mr. Shearman didn't give credit to Miss Libbey, however, but left his hearers to believe that he was the WOMAN STARTS A NEW CLUB inventor of the career as well as of the type-writer. With one spothegm, however, he made a hit.

"Never think of marrying," he advised his hearers, "until you can support a husband," which sentiment was greeted with applause. Miss cleveland, President of the National Association of Business Women, who had come on from Chicago to attend the performance, congratulated the New York organization upon its brilliant start and told how the movement was spreading to the principal cities of the country. She was followed by Miss Irwin-Martin, President of the College Women's Club, who made some pleasant and hygienic remarks on the influence of luncheon upon intellectual effort. She hoped that the business women's luncheons, which are to be a feature of the club, would be productive of much good in the commercial world.

Telegrams of congratulation were read from various persons. One of them was from President McKinley, who wired that a previous engagement prevented his accepting the invitation to the dinner and that he wished to express his best wishes for the success of the association and his hearty approval of its objects. The reading of the message was heartlly applauded. Dr. John Balcom Shaw was then introduced and said some pleasant things about women and also told some stories.

For a month the association will throw its rooms open to business women in general, but thereafter only to members and their friends. It is understood that the sterner element wished to shut out man altogether, but more moderate counsels prevailed and it is probable that man, properly accredited and chaperoned, will be allowed at luncheon. "Never think of marrying," he advised Charles Botsford Peck of Brooklyn and Miss Helen Rice May were married on Tuesday at the home of the bride, "Maywood," at Lee, Mass. William J. Peck, brother of the bride-groom, was best man, and Miss Frances E. May, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary E.
